Nervous Debility.
Symptoms.—Dizziness, weariness, with nervous, irresolute feeling, irritability, no energy, loss of memory, despondency and low spirits, trembling, caused by slight excitement, sleeplessness, poor appetite, and, frequently, palpitation.
The causes of nervous debility are many: overwork, lack of bodily exercise, insufficient rest and nourishment, absence of amusement, loss of vitality, etc. The results, however, are the same: poor circulation of blood, impaired digestion, deranged nervous system; the heart loses force, the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels fail to perform their functions. This should not be, when a remedy is ever at hand.

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO:—
GENTLEMEN: I wish to testify to the great value of your SARSAPARILLA. Three years ago I commenced to be troubled with Indigestion. Employed a Physician but grew steadily worse until I could not eat anything, even the lightest broth, without its souring and causing great distress. I continued to grow worse. I had terrible pains in my head, arms and shoulders that words cannot describe—my sufferings only God knows. Physician after Physician was called until six had tried their skill to no avail.
I suffered so that my eyes became distorted—I looked cross-eyed, and two objects appeared to my vision where there was only one—I feared I should be blind. I consulted an Occulist who told me the trouble was caused by my stomach, and that my eyes would come back when my stomach was better. He gave me medicine—I took it, but it did me no good. I tried Dyspepsia Cures, and in fact everything advertised that I thought might help me, but got no benefit from any of them. I was utterly discouraged—confined to my bed—greatly reduced in weight—nerves shattered—some nights could not shut my eyes to sleep. Life was a burden and I felt that though young in years, death would be welcome.
One day copies of your papers came—mother read them, and said, "I am going to get you a bottle of DANA'S SARSAPARILLA." I had no faith in it, and do you wonder after taking so many kinds of medicine? However, I commenced taking it, and before that bottle was gone I felt it was helping me. I continued until I had taken nine bottles, and I AM CURED by your wonderful medicine. I cannot say too much in its praise. I thank God I ever heard of DANA'S SARSAPARILLA.
Gratefully yours,
CARRIE B. SHELDON.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

What the Press Says of the Nominations at Minneapolis.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cala., June 11. "While it may be conceded that the prevailing sentiment of California favored Blaine, no Republican can take exception to the nomination of President Harrison, who has given the country an administration which was conservative where conservatism was demanded and aggressive where the honor and dignity of the country were involved."

Indianapolis Journal.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 11. The Journal says: "The renomination of President Harrison is a great triumph for him and for the Republican party."

St. Louis Republican.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 11. The Republican says editorially: "With Chauncey M. Depew holding Vanderbilt's purse string as commander of the Harrison forces, with 123 federal office holders in convention, with purchased majority on the Committee on Credentials and with influences which control the negro balance of power, Mr. Harrison has succeeded in renominating himself. The nomination means, of course, the entire repudiation of anything like conservatism in the Republican party.

Kansas City Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 11. Mr. Harrison accomplished the result by the continuous manipulation of the appointed powers. It is the most signal triumph the bread and butter brigade has ever won.

New Orleans Picayune.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 11. The Picayune says the nomination of Harrison is only another evidence of the power of political machines. Before the people Mr. Blaine would be greatly the strongest man, but in a count largely composed of or under the influence of the President's political appointees, a popular man has very little show.

RIOTOUS UNION MEN

Try to Induce Non-Union Men to Quit Work—Several Shots Fired.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., June 11. A special from Tonawanda reports a riot there this forenoon, about 10.30. Five hundred union men went to the Western lumber yards for the purpose of inducing non union men to quit work. The foreman of the yards while remonstrating, was struck on the nose with a stone. He drew his revolver and fired into the mob. Eight officers who were defending the non union men, also drew revolvers and fired into the mob and it is reported that several were shot but the number cannot be ascertained. Two policemen, one Frank Kingsley, was shot in the stomach and liable to die, the other, John Miller, was shot in the knee. The riotous union men then went to Tonawanda Island and to the lumber yards in South Tonawanda and succeeded in chasing the non union men home. The Sheriff with a posse has been sent to the scene of the riot.

Comments of Leading London Papers on the Minneapolis Convention.

LONDON, June 11. Commenting on the Minneapolis Convention the Chronicle says "Mr. Blaine's sacrifice availed him nothing. The result was a great surprise. To England it is a relief to know that Mr. Blaine is beyond the power of making mischief between the United States and England as he would certainly have done had he become the next occupant of the White House."

The Telegraph says: "So far as England is concerned little interest is felt. We have no reason to love either Mr. Blaine or Harrison. The removal of the former from politics will soften somewhat the American relations with England."

LONDON, June 11. The Pall Mall Gazette commenting on the result of the Republican convention, at Minneapolis, says Blaine is too clever by half. It adds: "How are the mighty fallen! Even those who have no sympathy with the politician Blaine, can scarce regret for the cruel disappointment to the ablest man in the Republican party, and the most astute politician in the United States."

A Sweeping Victory for the Rebels at Venezuela.

The People at Caracas in a State of Great Excitement.

A Severe Battle near Cuyaba, Brazil.

The Government Troops Retreat in Great Disorder.

NEW YORK, June 11. A Puerto Cabello, Venezuela special, says another battle was fought at a point between this town and Caracas yesterday. It resulted in a sweeping victory for the rebels. Palacca's troops were routed all along the line and after a stubborn resistance were put to flight. They left their dead and wounded on the battle field and a quantity of arms and ammunition. Gen. Crespo commanded the revolutionists. He is now marching at the head of his army toward Caracas. The state of excitement and panic prevailing in the capital cannot be exaggerated. The Herald correspondent at Montevideo, Uruguay, telegraphs that advices received in that city from the rebellious state of Matto Grosso, Brazil, announce terrific fighting in and around the capital, Cuyaba, and the defeat of the Government soldiers. The combat is said to have begun on May 7, and lasted until May 13, when the Government troops fled in the utmost disorder. They are reported to have left 1,000 men killed upon the battle field and even a larger number of the wounded. All the chief officers of the Government forces were killed. Cuyaba was then entered by the victorious rebels, who sacked it and assassinated all the Government officials.

They are overcrowded, the sanitary arrangements bad and no adequate provision for the inmates in case of fire. GHERARDI'S FLAGSHIP.

After Cruising Sixteen Thousand Miles in Seven Months the Philadelphia Returns.

Rear Admiral Gherardi's flagship, the Philadelphia, came to anchor off Tompkinsville, Wednesday evening. She will go up to the New York Navy Yard to be docked and coaled. It is more than eight months since the ship was last docked, yet, in spite of her foul bottom, the run of 380 miles from Annapolis to Sandy Hook was made at an average of nearly ten and one-half knots an hour, the ship steaming with two boilers, natural draught.

Barring a few minor repairs which cannot be made aboard ship, the Philadelphia is in excellent condition. During her recent cruise she has not met with any accident or breakdown, even temporarily disabling the ship. She has always been ready and able to go anywhere where there was enough water to float.

Good Service at Sea.

The Philadelphia in seven months has steamed more than sixteen thousand miles—about one-half the distance travelled by a transatlantic liner in the same time. As, however, she has always gone at a reduced speed for economical reasons, she has actually been under way at sea just as many days as one of the great mail steamers. At the same time the distance from shore at which it was necessary to anchor at many ports—as Montevideo, Port au Prince and Savannah—made the stay but little more comfortable than a passage at sea.

The stay of the Philadelphia at the Navy Yard will probably not be a long one. The plumbing arrangements of the ship must be thoroughly overhauled. The decks are worn away in spots requiring new planks, and there will be considerable caulking. The steam launches require repairs before they can be used again, it having been necessary to borrow steamers from the other ships and the Naval Academy authorities while at Annapolis in order to keep up the ship's routine.

Perhaps the most important work of all, if any change is contemplated, would be to fit the ship for coaling through the hatches as well as through the side ports.

How Coaling Can be Hastened.

Attention has been frequently called to the difficulty with which our new cruisers are coaled. The many watertight bulkheads subdivide the bunkers and make it a tedious matter to transport the coal, when it is received on only one side, through the passages to the bunkers on the other. This caused the Philadelphia to leave Kingston a year ago with many of her bunkers empty, the contractors finding it impossible to induce their trimmers to handle the coal at the stipulated price. At Montevideo, again, the rough sea frequently made it impossible to open the side coaling ports so that most of the coal had to be hoisted inboard in large bags and struck below from the berth deck. Although the bunkers were not designed to be filled in this manner it was found that the coal could be distributed so much more quickly on the open berth deck than through the narrow passages below, that the same method was followed in coaling the off-shore bunkers while lying alongside the dock at Key West. The result was that the ship was coaled more quickly than ever before.

Coaling in a Seaway.

It is generally acknowledged that in coaling at sea or in open roadsteads where lighters cannot make fast alongside, one vessel must tow the other abreast, sheering on and off with the helm and hoisting the coal in over all. The collier, of course, carries the coal in bags; all that is necessary is to hook on a sufficient number of these and at a favorable moment hoist them aboard the cruiser. Much of the freight carried by the Pacific Mail steamers along the coast of Central America is handled in a similar manner, the swell making it impossible to secure the lighters alongside without plenty of line to sheer off when necessary.

Judging from the experience at Montevideo it is believed that if a few slight changes were made in certain of the Philadelphia's bunkers, permitting them to be reached from the decks above, more than three hundred tons of coal a day could be taken on board in any weather that would permit a lighter to approach the ship. As during the past seven months more than four thousand tons of coal have been taken on board in various ways and in all sorts of weather and climate, sufficient experience has been gathered to indicate the best method.

BOYS ENTOMBED ALIVE.

Three Little Adventurers Imprisoned for Hours in a Suffocating Closet.

Three very small boys were found in a dark closet on the third floor of the untenanted house Seventy-six Sixth avenue, New York, last week, where they had been for fifteen hours or more. The compartment was but three feet wide and eighteen inches long, and they were nearly dead from heat, suffocation and fright.

They were Leo and Max Karnow, aged five and four respectively, and Andrew Leary, aged six years. Although in precarious condition when found, the youngsters were all right in a day or two, and apparently ready for any frolic that might present itself.

Mrs. Karnow says that she missed her boys about three o'clock, but was not disturbed, as they always played about the streets wherever they liked. When they did not come home to supper, however, she began to wonder, and became alarmed. Mrs. Leary, in the meanwhile greatly disturbed about her son, visited the Karnow home. The disappearance of the youngsters was reported at the Mulberry street police station, and a general alarm was sent out. All was without avail.

Traced by a Dream.

Mrs. Karnow sat up all night, while her husband was searching for their boys. Unable to keep awake longer toward morning, she fell half asleep, and the idea recurred to her again and again, she says, as though in a dream, that the children were in the empty building next door. She told her husband of this when he came home. He did not think much of her suggestion, but was finally persuaded to make an investigation.

There was an open door to the unoccupied house, and the husband had no sooner reached the second floor of the latter than he heard smothered cries. They appeared to come from a closet. He burst open the door, and there were disclosed the three youngsters, lying in a heap on the narrow floor, one unconscious, the others moaning and crying in a semi-unconscious condition.

Little Sufferers.

Little Andrew Leary was the first to recover. Leo Karnow was quite ill for several hours, but he, too, grew better rapidly. Max Carnow did not completely recover consciousness for five hours, and evidently would have been suffocated to death had he not been rescued just in time.

The boys had been playing in the house and ventured into the closet. The door closed with a spring latch. They had no air except that which came in through a small crack, and the musty, foul atmosphere in the narrow box overcame them but a few minutes after they found themselves imprisoned.

The little fellows were dripping with perspiration, which was wrung from their little waists. They were hoarse from screaming and limp with exhaustion. The noise of the busy life on Sixth avenue had prevented their cries being heard during the day, and they had become too weak to attract attention after, when the outside tumult subsided. Had they remained in the closet but a short while longer all most certainly would have died of suffocation.

MAINE MELANGE.

Aroostook Farmers Making Good Progress in Work.

Some of the Recent Events of Interest Hereabouts.

Aroostook.

The next session of Aroostook County Pomona Grange will be held with Aroostook Union Grange, South Presque Isle, Thursday, June 16th.

A correspondent from Easton writes the Star-Herald: "Quite a freshet occurred here on Wednesday of last week. Between three and four o'clock the rain poured in such torrents that it literally carried away about two acres of potatoes belonging to James Libby. It washed them down the hill and on to the flat, so that after the shower they could be picked up by the bushel."

On Monday, Vincent Parkhurst, of Maysville, was helping to butcher a hog, and during the struggle to get the porker, which weighed between four and five hundred, down, young Parkhurst stepped back into a hole and fell, breaking his right leg.

The proposition now is to light Fort Fairfield by transmitting the current from Caribou. Ten years ago a man would have been called a little out who suggested the bare idea of an Aroostook town being lighted by electricity, and if he had said that within a decade or so the electric sparks would be ground out at Caribou and the illuminant transmitted to Fort Fairfield, twelve miles distant, to light stores and dwellings, he would have been regarded as a highly dangerous scientific lunatic.

The farmers have got lots accomplished this season at small outlay, says the Presque Isle Star-Herald. Big crops are the rule and with seed cheap and plentiful, and hardly a break of bad weather the springs work has been done very economically. In this town Mr. S. W. Stevens has in forty acres of potatoes, and a very large acreage of grain. Mr. E. E. Parkhurst has some fifty acres planted, and all the broad-guaged farmers of Maysville Centre Line and other sections have surpassed previous records in quantity planted and sown.

Cumberland.

Findings are propularly supposed to belong to the sweeper, but one of the street-sweepers of Portland observes that his is a very disappointing job. He has found only a one-cent piece and a short lead pencil during his term of office and is disgusted with politics.

A Portland man tells the Transcript a queer story of a young man, a native of a small town in Maine, who tried to be a piano tuner, but failed because he had no ear for music, and who then went to work in a saw mill. Within a year he was struck on the ear by a flying bolt and the hearing in the ear destroyed, and when he recovered he found that all sounds were different to him from what they had been before. He went back to Boston, found no difficulty in tuning pianos, and is now a tuner for one of the largest piano firms there at a liberal salary. His ears had been taking in sounds differently making a continual discord, and by his fortunate accident harmony came to him.

Schooner Quickstep, of Gloucester, Mass., owned by Cunningham and Thompson, of that city, came into the harbor at Portland, the other morning with a cargo of fish for John S. Lovitt & Co. Capt. Ellsworth reported the loss of two of the crew during a heavy fog that prevailed off the Quero Banks in latitude 43 degrees 28 seconds, and about longitude 50 degrees 20 seconds. During the fog last Sunday morning, about nine o'clock, the crew in eight dories left the schooner to visit the trawls about a mile and a half away. In the meantime the fog increased in density and it was with difficulty that the return to the schooner was made. One of the dories, in which were Thomas Murphy, of Philadelphia, and John Flynn, of Gloucester, failed to put in appearance and the captain and crew were at once alarmed. The united shouting of the crew was of no avail, and immediately the fog horn, which is capable of being heard at a distance of two miles, was brought in use in addition to a gatling gun which happened to be on board. No response came to the anxious shipmates and when night came and no signs of their returning appeared the crew were very much alarmed. The firing of the gun continued at intervals until the powder was exhausted and the fog horn was kept blowing the remainder of Sunday and Sunday night till the latter part of the next day, when the fog lifted and presented a clear view for miles around. A search was at once inaugurated, the vessel sailing in every direction where there was any possibility of finding the lost men but without avail. The crew are much affected by the loss, but it is possible that they were picked up by a passing ship. The schooner has had unusually good luck in her past trips, having caught fish to the amount of $10,000 worth, and this sad accident is keenly felt by all. Thomas Murphy has a mother and three sisters in Philadelphia, and is a man of more than ordinary education and fine manners, this being his first trip on a fishing schooner. John Flynn has a mother and two sisters in Gloucester. They are both unmarried men, Murphy being twenty-six years of age and Flynn about twenty-two.

Franklin.

The Farmington Chronicle heard a report this week, that the Maine Central Railroad has secured control of the Sandy River narrow guage railroad, and that a standard guage railroad would soon be laid to Rangely. Officers of the Sandy River road neither deny nor admit there is any foundation for the statement.

Somerset.

These changes in the Maine postal service are announced: Blackwell, from Madison Centre. Change base of supply from Madison Centre to Madison, from June 8, 1892, without change of distance.

Last week was a series of accidents and misfortunes in Detroit. The Pittsfield Advertiser says Will Raynes, John McPherson and William Tibbetts all lost horses from various accidents. Frank Clark fell forty feet from an old building and was seriously bruised and Hollis Whiting fell from the same building and struck on his head.

CANNOT SPEAK TOO HIGHLY
Of Hidden's Magnetic Compound, Says Mrs. Nettie F. Andrews of Byfield Mass.
Mrs. Nettie F. Andrews writes that she suffered five long years with neuralgia, coupled with nervous prostration, female weakness and similar ills. Tried various remedies. Tried the doctors for miles around. Grew worse and worse. Was finally induced to try Hidden's Magnetic Compound, the king of remedies for suffering women. "Now I cannot speak too highly of it," she says. "It has completely cured the neuralgia, and greatly benefited the other troubles. This medicine strikes right at the root of the disease, and good effect is felt immediately." Thus she writes to women: "Try Hidden's Magnetic Compound. Do not waste money and valuable time on other remedies." This is sound advice. It cured her. 'Twill cure you. This compound is not a sarsaparilla. It is not a decoction with mineral poisons for a base. It is a clean, pure, honest combination of roots, herbs and barks, fresh from God's great laboratory—the fields and woods. It is just what you need to brace you up against the summer heat. Do not seek health abroad. Take Hidden's Magnetic Compound and be cured at home. It is cheaper and safer than a season at the mountains or seashore. Our compound is a reliable medicine. It's very name is suggestive of health—pure, bubbling, rosy-cheeked health. It sparkles with life. It is the coming medicine. All druggists. $1. BUY IT, TRY IT, 'TWILL DO YOU GOOD. If you are sick take our advice—try

Republicans will go into the Campaign United.

For some days past our Democratic contemporaries have been devoting their attention to the Republican convention, but the hour is rapidly approaching when they will have to face the contention between the Cleveland-Hill factions of their own party. It has been a great relief for them to be able to drop for the time being the bitter struggle that has been going on for months among the Democrats of the various States, and offer suggestions or make criticisms upon the progress of the Minneapolis convention. Now they are confroted with the problem of selecting their own candidates and realize that the old quarrel is on just as bitter as ever.

On the surface some of them pretend to be very confident of success this fall, but they cannot give any substantial reason for their alleged confidence. In 1888 General Harrison was the candidate of the Republican party and then as now the Republicans went into the campaign with more or less disappointment in the ranks, as it had been hoped almost up to the last minute that the convention would unanimously nominate Mr. Blaine, in which case it was believed that he would be obliged to accept. Personal preference, however, gave way to loyalty to party principles and the Republicans went into the campaign with a solid front.

The Democrats had the administration thus giving Mr. Cleveland an immense advantage in the race, but he was defeated. The Republicans are stronger to-day than they were four years ago. Instead of having to regain the administration it is now in their control. On the tariff, which again be the chief issue of the campaign, will the Republicans are united, while the Democrats ever since this Congress assembled have been demonstrating to the country that they were afraid to make good their pledge to repeal the McKinley law. The reason for this is not difficult to find. The law has been working to the satisfaction of the people. It has completely confounded the lies of the free traders who predicted that as the result of its adoption the country would go to ruin.

Therefore, we say, the Republicans are stronger than they were when they won the election in the last campaign. The administration has been an able and clean one and the President enjoys the confidence and respect of the country. The Democrats who are counting upon Republican disaffection are bound to be disappointed. The Blaine men are always loyal to the party and will to a man respond to the words of the great leader himself, who said as soon as the nomination was made:

"All minor differences should be merged in the duty of every Republican to do all in his power to elect the ticket this day nominated by the National Republican Convention."

There will be no sulking in the ranks this year. Great principles are involved all in the battle between the two old [illegible] Republican will [illegible]

Maine Republicans.

The Republicans of Maine will name their candidate for Governor at the State Convention to be held in Portland, June 21st, and then the lines will be drawn for the September campaign. It seems to be a settled fact that Gen. Cleaves will be the standard bearer this fall, and the united manner in which the members of the party are demanding his nomination not only shows that he is a popular candidate, but that the Republicans are thoroughly harmonious and fully alive to the importance of the contest to be fought out in Maine which will lead off in the greater battle to be settled in November.

This is as it should be. When the Republicans of Maine are fully aroused they are invincible. The only thing to be feared in this State is over confidence which leads to apathy on the part of the voters. It must be kept in mind that the Democrats are organized in a very thorough manner. For months they have had men traveling over the State doing nothing but campaign work. The result is that the party will go into the contest this fall with the best organization it has had since 1880. This means a stubborn fight on their part and the Republicans must leave nothing to chance.

The issues of the campaign will be the same as two years ago. The Democrats have again inserted the license plank in their platform and every honest friend of prohibition should understand that the only way for him to make his ballot count for the law is to vote the Republican ticket. The Third Party movement is simply playing into the hands of the Democrats, as the prohibition sentiment of the State will be gauged by the Republican vote on one hand and the Democratic vote on the other. It will thus be seen that every vote cast against the Republicans will actually count for license. In other words should the Third Party add a thousand votes to its column and the Republicans should fall short just that number, the Democrats would claim that the prohibition sentiment in the State had fallen off in exact proportion to the decrease in the Republican vote. This fact makes clear the duty of the friends of prohibition.

Another point that should not be overlooked is the fact that the election will be the first under the new ballot law. Every voter should make himself familiar with this new method so that his ballot may not be defective. The time to do this is in advance of the election.

Democratic Row.

It is reported that Mr. Leavitt has sent for nomination papers and proposes to run as an independent candidate on the Democratic ticket in this district this fall. The Commercial has a good deal to say about the Republican National Convention, but it is as dumb as an oyster over the fracas among the Democratic brethren right under its eyes. There is, however, the biggest kind of a "kick" over the manipulation of the convention by Bass and Robinson. Bass first tried to steal the city delegates by stuffing the ballot box, but failed. He was more successful in the convention where he secured an election by the same disreputable methods, according to the testimony of Messrs. Hudson and Hathaway, who will contest his election before the National Committee. It is not to be expected that they will make much out of the contest before a committee said to be absolutely controlled by David B. Hill, who owes his political prominence to just such tactics as those complained of by the delegates named.

No attempt is made, however, to deny the truth of the charge preferred by the Leavitt men. On the other hand the Democrats openly admit that the ballot box was stuffed and the vote sealed down to suit the purposes of the Bass-Robinson combination. These men have performed in this high handed manner so often that they felt perfectly safe in over-riding the voice of the convention, but it appears that they have worked their little game too many times and now the cheated parties refuse to accept the bogus result.

The row grows hotter every day and the defrauded delegates express their opinion of Bass in language more forcible than elegant. A letter from Aroostook says that the Democrats are in open revolt against the action of the convention in deciding the nomination on a bogus ballot and declare that they will not vote for Powers who was not the choice of the county.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A Necessity.

"Life Insurance has become a necessity. Instead of hoarding against the chances of death, people count on their families being protected by the fruit of their annual premiums. So generally has the capacity to save been eliminated by the popularity of life insurance that many would save nothing at all unless they did so in this way. This would mean so many more helpless widows and dependent young children. It is everybody's duty to make some sort of provision for those for whose existence he is responsible and it would be a sorry condition of affairs if there were a general failure to do so." TALK WITH WHITELAW REID.

He Speaks on Matters Connected with Recent Events.

Chauncey M. Depew Denies a Current Rumor

That He is to be Appointed Secretary of State.

NEW YORK, June 11 Hon. Whitelaw Reid was interviewed at his country seat to-day Mr. Reid spent the whole morning in the work of receiving congratulations Among those who sent messages were Mrs Morton, wife of the Vice President, Minister Lincoln Minister Coolidge, Postmaster General Wanamaker, Secretary Elkins and Attorney General Miller. Messages also came from the President and Mr. Blaine

In speaking of the platform Mr. Reid said it was a fighting one and thought that the planks upon which the most emphasis would be made in the contest were reciprocity, protection and silver. In fact taking it all around he thought it a good campaign document

Mr Reid said that ten days before the convention he and Mr Blaine dined together and in course of a general conversation they got down to politics, and Mr. Blaine told him that he (Reid) was likely to be the next Republican candidate for Vice President Mr Reid told Mr. Blaine that he did not want the position and could afford to wait He was satisfied with the honors he had, in the shape of one of the best posts abroad, at the disposal of the government. Mr Reid then himself, and said "What is the talk about you?" Mr Blaine said "I have no wish to be a candidate, and my expression of withdrawl was final"

Mr Reid was then asked if he could explain the meaning of the Secretary's withdrawl from the cabinet, if he had not in view any inclination for the Presidency at the Minneapolis convention Mr. Reid said that in his opinion the Secretary's resignation had nothing to do with a possible nomination and that it was something altogether foreign to what might take place at Minneapolis

When asked what he thought would be the Democratic ticket Mr Reid said he had been so long away from America that he could not answer the question

Shall you enter actively into the campaign, was asked of Mr Reid

"No, I shall not go into the campaign to any great extent but shall confine myself to work in New York My throat troubles me and on that account it would be impossible to do much speaking My voice gives out very easily

Depew Denies Rumor of Becoming Secretary of State

MINNEAPOLIS, June 11 A reporter asked Chauncey M Depew to-day if there was any foundation for the rumor that he was to succeed Mr Blaine as Secretary of State Mr Depew answered with much emphasis "Not a bit of foundation for it sir not a bit "Neither now or in the future was asked "No sir, not a bit of foundation for it

VANDERBILT'S YACHT

Sinks a Boat and Drowns Two People.

NEW YORK, June 11. The yacht Alva, belonging to W. K. Vanderbilt, ran down and sank a row boat this afternoon in North river, off 31st street. A man and woman who were the occupants of the boat, are reported drowned. When the accident occurred the Alva was steaming down North river on the way to Newport. The occupants of the boat were Nicholas Michaels, a saloon keeper at 276 Seventh avenue, and his housekeeper, Mary Simonin The couple had hired a boat to row around the warship Atlanta, which was anchored in the river opposite 33d street.

Both occupants of the boat seemed absorbed in gazing at the war vessel when the Alva's prow struck their craft amidships. Eye witnesses to the accident say no one on board the yacht seemed aware of the small boat's presence. The row boat was cut in twain. Its occupants sank immediately and were never seen again. The Alva kept on her course and it was apparent that even the shock of the collision if there was any was not felt.

VERY QUIET DAY.

No Excitement at the Capitol.

WASHINGTON, June 11 The stirring interest shown at the Capitol yesterday at the outcome of the choice of President Harrison for a second term was in striking contrast to the air of peaceful serenity and quietude which prevailed throughout the building to-day. As neither house was in session and none of the committees held meetings there was no reason for the presence of law makers in either chamber of Congress, and except for the presence of four or five members in the House writing letters at their desks and a few members and pages on the floor the building was almost deserted The Senate was likewise deserted and not a Senator except Mr Frye put in an appearance during the day

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA

It strikes us as remarkable to hear of the wonderful record for curing, enjoyed by Bethon's Infallible Pile Salve. It cures every form of this troublesome ailment. If not to be had of your druggist send 60 cents to the Winkelmann & Brown Drug Co., Baltimore, Md.

The proprietors of Ely's Cream Balm do not claim it to be a cure-all, but a remedy for catarrh, colds in the head and hay fever. It is not a liquid or a snuff, is easily applied into the nostrils. It gives relief at once. 50c.

DARING TRAIN ROBBERY.

Sixteen Thousand Dollars in Coin Secured by Robbers.

Custodians of the Money Threatened with Death.

Several Shots Fired at Robbers and one Injured.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal, June 11 Sixteen thousand dollars in coin was secured by daring robbers on the Berkeley train this morning, the Judson Manufacturing Company's messengers being plundered Two men boarded the train at the B street station. Both had drawn revolvers and the face of one of the highwaymen was blackened.

John Gilson, secretary of the Judson Manufacturing Company, accompanied by Harry Morrison, a clerk, was going to Emporyville to pay a month's wages to 400 employes The money was divided into bags—$15,000 in gold in one and $2,000 in silver in the other.

Gilson and Morrison were both armed, but the robbers had the drop on them, and the custodians of the money were obliged to deliver

As soon as the robbers got possession of the money they left the car and entered a dilapidated buggy, drawn by an old horse. Gilson and Morrison then drew their pistols and fired several shots at the fleeing robbers before they reached the buggy One of them is supposed to have been hit, for he was seen to stagger and was assisted by his companion The man whose face was blackened is supposed to have been an employe of the company

The passengers in the car had hardly realized what had taken place before the robbers made their escape Any attempt to secure the money at the time would have been futile, for the robbers kept the passengers covered with their revolvers

The largest fish weighed 12 pounds 9 ounces, and was a fine specimen of the lake trout. The other fish, six in number, were four to six pounds in weight. Mr. Lowell says fishing in Moosehead has been better this spring than ever, as the water has been low and the fish more easily found by the angler than is usually the case.

He instantly dashed off at terrific speed, narrowly escaping collision with a telegraph pole and as he dashed through the square his driver turned him up State street where he stumbled to his knees and the driver, jumping out, seized him by the bits and held him while the lady jumped from the carriage, the only damage being to the harness and the breaking of the dasher by the kicking of the horse. AMUSEMENTS

The Burglar

This comedy-drama was given at the Opera House Saturday evening before a rather small audience, which should have been a large one, as the presentation was an interesting one The piece is a pathetic one, but is relieved by the humorous situation and dialogue resultant from the nature of and circumstances which surround two of the characters The part of William Lewis was taken by Mr Eugene Moore, and his work was very effective, bringing him a curtain call at the end of the third act Miss Anna Boyer as Clara, (Mrs Lewis) gave a touching rendition of a heart broken woman's sorrows Little Miss Sadie Boardman is a promising child actress, and as Edith made a most favorable impression The other roles were in competent hands

Louise Hamilton

This young actress who comes here well recommended, opens a week's engagement at the Opera House to-night presenting "The Little Detective Of the play and star, the Meriden Conn, Journal of a late date, said

The play affords the little actress an opportunity to show her versatility and she goes from comedy to pathos without any apparent effort She sang some new songs which were encored, and her dancing was a pleasing feature The gallery went wild over the climaxes which were worked up with telling effect

Base Ball Notes

Bowdoin defeated Bates in a hotly contested game at Brunswick Saturday afternoon, forcing the fighting from the beginning and maintaining her lead throughout The features of the game were Downes and Pennell's batting, Putnam's home run, Fairbanks unassisted double play and Allen's throwing to bases If Bowdoin's protest of the game of June 3 is sustained by President Young, she has tied Bates for the championship otherwise the pennant goes to Bates

Two of the most interesting college games ever played will, it is expected be the contests between Harvard and Yale The first will be played at Cambridge June 23, and the second at New Haven on the 28th Each team has beaten Princeton twice The two teams seem to be very evenly matched in everything except batting in which the Harvard men have shown themselves much superior Judging from the Harvard men's showing this year they ought to win both games, but baseball is uncertain and the chances are about even Probably the biggest crowd ever gathered on Holmes field will witness the Yale game

The Passion Play

Next Wednesday evening Rev J J Lewis will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Passion Play" of Oberammergau as witnessed by him in August, 1890 The lecture will be given in the Universalist church, beginning at 8 o clock and there will doubtless be a large attendance Rev Mr Lewis is said to be an interesting and instructive speaker and is highly spoken of by many clergymen who have heard him lecture The beautiful stereopticon views with which the lecture is illustrated add greatly to its interest The lecture has been favorably received in many other places where it has been delivered

Woman's Board of Missions

In accordance with a special request from the executive committee of the Woman's Board of Missions, I desire to ask our members to consider the week beginning June 12th as a week of sacrifice for the benefit of the missionary work abroad Its demands were never so great, its needs never so pressing A year ago the Salvation Army raised two hundred thousand dollars in their week of sacrifice How few rich in worldly possessions are in its membership and what the self denial which accomplished so much must have meant to them! Will not their example spur us to a like endeavor? Can we not enjoy a sacrifice for such an end, to help, in ever so little measure to spread the knowledge and love of our Master throughout the world? We pray that His Kingdom may come, let us live as we pray, that our prayers may be heard and answered

FIRE AT ORONO.

A Great Conflagration Narrowly Averted.

Lincoln's and Taylor's Mills Burned, with Monitor Hall and Several Dwellings.

William Engel's Mill Saved by Smart Work

Splendid Work Done by the Paper Mill Force Pump

Bangor, Old Town and Upper Stillwater Lend their Aid.

At quarter past ten Saturday forenoon fire was discovered in the old and unused steam mill at Webster Station Orono owned by M Lincoln, of this city and before an alarm could be sounded the mill which was like a tinder box was one sheet of flame Further out from the shore of the river was William Engel's mill in which a full crew were busily engaged at work and so rapidly did the fire spread that they were cut off from escape by the usual passage and were obliged to get out of the tail end of the mill and get ashore on the logs

Monitor Engine Company whose house and hall were close to the burning mill and which were destroyed was quickly at work and Superintendent Hooper of the Webster Paper Mill in the briefest possible time organized his force and with their powerful force pumps put four streams of water at work and by smart work the Engel mill, which had caught fire, was saved

however, were beyond the control of the firemen, and the building was rapidly consumed The fire also communicating with the steam mill owned by W C Taylor and used for the manufacture of oars destroyed it completely as well as another building used for finishing the oars

The boarding house of the Lincoln mill occupied by Mr Harris was the next to succumb to the flames and this was followed by Monitor Hall and engine house a house owned by Harris and Parks and a house owned by Mrs Cowan A new house standing next to the Harris and Parks house was saved being the only thing in the square which was not burned excepting the Webster railroad station which caught fire, but was extinguished without damage

On the opposite side of the street from where the main fire was was the house of Mrs Cowan, which was burned and adjoining it was Mr Spencer's shop which was somewhat damaged

The Maine Central

Railroad Company was quite a loser by the burning of the trestle sustaining the branch track at Engel's mill and also five or six platform cars most of which were entirely consumed and the others so much damaged as to be worthless The heat from the Lincoln mill was so severe that there was no such thing as getting at the cars to remove them to a place of safety

Most of the contents of the burning buildings other than the mills were saved

News of the fire reached this city at 10 30 A M, and in an incredably short space of time Mr Engel and Mr J Fred Webster behind Mr Webster's horse had reached the scene of conflagration and lent their best energies to subduing it Word also was sent to Bangor for aid and at 11 25 a special train with steamer Victory, No 2 with a force of men under charge of Chief Engineer Parker arrived and the steamer was at once set to work in a

Most Favorable Location

Five minutes lataer a special from Old Town brought another steamer and closely following this arrival hand tub Excelsior from Upper Stillwater manned by a resolute crew By this time however the had been gotten under control in some places and burned itself out in others so that the work was principally confined to extinguishing the remaining flames and preventing sparks and cinders from extending the fire to other places North of the scene of fire, and just in the direction the wind was blowing was an immense pile of boards amounting to six or seven million feet, and of great value the property of William Engel & Co and the great fear was that the fire should reach this, and the danger of its doing so is shown by the fact that cinders set fire to a pine stump close by it, which being discovered was

Speedily Extinguished

Persons who came down the road from Old Town say said they saw large cinders at a distance of two miles from the fire The wind was strong and everything about was dry as tinder and it is a matter of wonder that the fire was confined to the limits within which it first started The firemen and citizens did yeomen's work and were refreshed from time to time by squads of men and women of the village who carried and dealt out with unstinted hand cold water and crackers, hot coffee and cake, gingerbread and doughnuts, cheese, bread and butter and sandwiches and the men ate as well as they worked will reach somewhere from $15,000 to $20-000, the Lincoln mill being valued principally for the machinery it contained, consisting of boiler, engine, rotary clapboard and lath machines There was no insurance

Taylor's loss was about $2,500 on which there was no insurance

The damage to Engel's mill was small and covered by insurance The house owned by Harris and Parks valued at $800 or $900, had an insurance of $750 The mill boarding house was worth perhaps $800 and was not insured Mrs Cowan's house was of about the same value and had an insurance of $300 Monitor Hall had been recently newly fitted up at an expense of several hundred dollars, and with the engine house beneath was valued at about $3,000 There was no insurance on the hall, but it is said that the town had a small amount on the engine house. The loss to the Maine Central railroad cannot be ascertained, but is, we understand, covered by insurance.

Before noon Mr Engel had a complete memorandum of the timber required to rebuild the trestle and it was to be sawed out Saturday afternoon and to-day and the mill will be filling all orders as usual on Tuesday.

The town is to be congratulated on its fortunate escape and much credit is due to those who labored so zealously and successfully to protect it.

A Letter from Honey Grove.

A well-known Boston man, having under consideration an investment in the Lone Star Cotton Picker, and wishing to learn more of its value, wrote to one of the most influential citizens of Northern Texas, and received the following:

HONEY GROVE, TEXAS,
March 7th, 1892.

DEAR SIR:—

Yours of Feb. 23d at hand. I will say, in answer to the same, that I have seen the Lone Star Cotton Picker at work in the field, actually picking the cotton from the bolls on the stalk as they stood in the rows in the field, doing the work as well as my hands were doing it on my farm at the same time. I am making no other calculation but to pick my crop next fall with one of the above Cotton Pickers, for it would pay me to give four or five times the cost of one rather than pay from 75 cents to $1.25 per hundred to get it picked by hand. One machine will gather as much as twenty or thirty hands in one day. You can see what I think by the little I have said, so I remain,

Yours truly,
J. C. RUTHERFORD.

Republican Caucus.

The Republican voters of the City of Brewer are hereby notified to meet at City Hall, FRIDAY, June 17, 1892, at 7.30 o'clock P. M. to choose delegates to attend the Republican State Convention to be held at Portland, June 29, 1892, as per call of Republican State Committee; also to choose delegates to attend the Republican County Convention to be held in Dexter on the 28th day of June at 10 o'clock A. M. as per call of the Republican County Committee, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before them.
Per order of the Republican City Committee.
D. A. SARGENT, Chairman.
W. W. DOANE, Secretary.
Brewer, Me., June 9, 1892.

Mr. N. H. A. Gammon, of Old Town, was in the city yesterday.

The boiler of the small steamer being finished at Barbour's yard has been placed in the boat.

Mr. Luke O'Toole, foreman of H. Poor & Sons' tanneries at Lowell, spent Sunday in the city.

Miss Cora Pierce, who has been spending several months in Arlington, N. J., has arrived home.

The three masted schooner James W. Bigelow has been hauled out on the marine railway for repairs.

Miss Carrie Oakes, of Hancock, who has been making a short visit with friends in the city, left Saturday, on her way to her home.

James Garrity, an old offender, was before the Municipal Court, Saturday, for drunkenness, and was sentenced to serve 60 days in the County jail.

The flag pole which has stood for years at the engine house on Parker street, was being taken down Saturday, it having been deemed advisable to do so, on account of its decayed condition.

The pant factories which have been shut down for a few days, on account of the failure of the water supply, have resumed operations again. Quite a number of girls are employed in these establishments.

Ripe field strawberries have made their appearance. Master Willis Currier found two good sized specimens of this delicious fruit Saturday that had assumed the red color that showed them to be ready for eating.

It is understood that shipping from the ice houses of Messrs. F. W. Ayer, & Co., at South Brewer, will begin about the first of next month. About 25,000 tons of the crystal commodity is stored in the buildings.

The water was again shut off Saturday night, for the purpose of finishing repairs that have been necessitated. It was to have been turned on yesterday noon, but it was early last evening before the supply was received.

Miss Grace Perry, daughter of Rev. Cyrus Perry, who formerly preached at South Brewer, but is now located in New York, is expected to arrive about the first of July for a visit with friends at the lower end of the city.

The thermometer showed a temperature up in the "nineties" yesterday, and people found themselves well occupied in keeping cool. Hammocks and shady nooks were much sought for, and many took a ride for the breeze which the motion created.

Sunday at this season of the year is always a prosperous day for the electric railroad, if the weather is pleasant, as great crowds indulge in pleasure riding when that is the case. There was a large amount of this class of travel yesterday in this city.

A man named Brennick, who is employed at Ayer's mill at South Brewer, accidently cut his foot with an axe one day last week, and was obliged to suspend work for a short time. He seems to have been quite unfortunate of late, as he quite recently received an injury from a block of wood which was thrown out of a window in the mill building.

Manager Skinner of the High School base ball team has about concluded arrangements for a game with a Belfast nine, to occur on Thursday and Friday of this week at Belfast. It is proposed to make up an excursion party, and go on the steamer William Connors. Such a trip would be a pleasant one, and a number will probably accompany the boys to cheer them on to victory.

The death of a well-known resident of East Eddington, occurred, Thursday, at that place, that of Mr. Winfield S. McFarland. He was 56 years of age, and many regretted to learn of his decease. The funeral was held, yesterday afternoon, and quite a delegation from Wildey Lodge I. O. O. F., of this city, of which organization the late Mr. McFarland was a member, were in attendance.

A young son of Mr. Z. C. Palmer, the foreman of Ayer's mill at South Brewer, met with quite a serious mishap Saturday forenoon. He owns a dog and at the time referred to he found the animal fighting with another, which belongs to George Robinson. In attempting to separate the brutes Robinson's dog bit one of his hands. The injured member received medical attention, and is doing as well as could be expected.

The lock-up in the City Hall building has been well filled since Saturday night. During the evening the City Marshal found four inebriated individuals, three sailors and one Brewer man, that needed looking after and gave them lodgings in the cooler and at about 11.30 the same night, Officer O'Connor brought a South Brewer man up who was drunk and disorderly, and he was consigned to the same place. Another was arrested Sunday afternoon. So, since the time above referred to, the lock-up has had six tenants, the largest number that has been in it at once. All will come up for trial to-day.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Three Interesting Concerts in the Churches Sunday Evening.

An appropriate observance of Children's Day was held at the Methodist and two Congregational churches in the city Sunday. Each of the pastors preached a fitting sermon in the morning and in the evening three fine concerts were given. At the

the concert programme had been efficiently managed and passed off very nicely, the large audience finding the exercises most interesting. The church had been tastefully decorated. The following was the programme.

Organ Voluntary, Miss Bennett; Anthem, choir; Scripture reading; prayer, pastor; singing by school; reading, Miss Estelle Robinson, Mrs. W. A. Pierce's class, Mrs. Ella Hosie's class; singing, chorus choir, Mrs. Cary's class, Miss Lottie Robinson's class; singing by school; reading, Miss Annie Aiken, Miss Allie Farrington's class; solo, Miss Effie Gratten; reading, Miss Caro Swett, Mrs. Royal's class; singing, chorus choir; reading, Sue Swett; singing by choir; collection; Secretary and Treasurer's report; address, Rev. B. B. Merrill; singing, school and congregation; benediction.

First Methodist Church.

At this church a large audience gathered to hear the fine event which had been arranged by a committee consisting of Miss Annie Gordon, Miss Maud Higgins, Miss Minnie Cochran, Mrs. B. B. Jones and Mrs. W. B. Barstow. The decorations were profuse and so arranged that the effect was [illegible]. The exercises were well presented, the various parts reflecting much credit upon [illegible]. The programme was given as follows:

Voluntary, by Daisy Currier; singing, [illegible] exercises, Miss Minnie Cochran's class; duet, Miss Emmie Wadleigh and Miss Alice Veazie; recitation, "Then and Now," Edna Smith; singing, "Glorious Summer" school; dialogue, "Children's Day our Jerusalem;" recitation, Daisy Whelden, response by choir; exercise, Miss Annie Dooey's class; singing, "Keep Your Record Clean," girls; recitation, "service," Lou Tozier; solo, Ethel Boden; recitation, "The Duty of Giving," Willie Daley; singing, "The Great Commission," girls; recitation, "If and If," Hiram Swett; recitation, "Flower Messenger," Ethel Cousins; selection, "Give With Liberal Hand," quartette; collection; solo, Eva Kent, with full chorus; benediction.

At South Brewer.

The concert at the Second Congregational church at South Brewer, was an efficiently arranged affair and passed off in a most successful manner. Decorations of a tasteful and attractive character graced the auditorium, and the audience was a large one. The following was the evening's programme:

Voluntary, Processional; reading of the Scriptures; prayer; music, choir; recitation, three young ladies; singing, school; recitation, Miss Mary Neal; singing, children; recitation, Miss Maud Brewer; recitation, Miss Hodges' class; recitation, Miss Nellie Wiswell; singing, children; recitation, Mr. E. F. Nickerson's class; singing, school; recitation Miss May Neal's class; recitation, Miss Stubb's class; singing, choir; recitation, Miss Hattie Nickerson's class; recitation, Mrs. Stanley; singing, children; recitation, Mrs. Frank B. Dole; singing, school; recitation, Mrs. Ware's class; recitation, Walter Cole; singing, school; benediction.

The numbers were each most creditably given and those present enjoyed the concert greatly. It was arranged by Mrs. Frank Dole's class, and the children were drilled in singing by Mrs. A. P. Sargent.

AGRICULTURAL.

Something about Feeding Horses.

Bulletin No. 13 of the agricultural experiment station of Utah reports the results of a feeding trial of horses by the director, J. W. Sanborn. It reports the result of a trial in a direction that the American experiment station literature is almost silent upon, viz.: The feeding horses hay and grain mixed, and feeding cut against whole hay to horses.

It is a common belief with horsemen that when grain, especially meal, and more especially such meal as corn meal, is fed to horses alone or mixed with hay, it tends to compact in the stomach and produce indigestion. It is believed that it so far compacts that the gastric juices do not have free access to the mass of it. Furthermore, it is believed to be subject more to the washing influence of heavy drinking. In the latter respect it is known that the horse's stomach is very small, and that grain is liable to be washed out of it, as the stomach necessarily overflows with water.

As usual, the writer fed two lots of horses for nearly three months, one lot with hay and grain mixed and the other lot with hay and grain fed separately. At the end of this period the food was reversed, and the horses were fed some two months more. It would be unnecessary to quote the figures of this lengthy trial. Suffice it to say that it was found that horses, as in the case of cattle and pigs, showed no disadvantage by the division of the grain and hay into separate feeds over feeding hay mixed with grain. Indeed, in this trial he found a disadvantage for the hay and grain mixed, they not maintaining their weight as well. The author ascribed this result to the fact that the timothy hay when cut fine with its sharp solid ends irritated and made sore the mouths of the horses, and possibly induced too rapid eating, as when the hay and grain were moist they would be more likely to eat more rapidly than when fed dry. As this trial is in accord with trials with ruminants and with the pig, it would seem quite probable that the old and persistent argument in favor of mixing hay and grain is not sound.

Cut or Whole Hay.

The second trial reported in this bulletin covered feeding of cut against whole hay to horses. This trial also covered two periods in which the foods were reversed with the sets in order to determine whether any change of weights found was due to the individualism of the horses, or whether it was due to the system of feeding. The two periods covered from August 10th to December 31st. As in the other case, we will not review the tabulated data that accompany the bulletin. This trial was very decisively in favor of the cut hay. The difference in weight of the horses was 115 pounds in favor of cut clover for the four months and a half covered by this period. The food fed was clover, and the author points out the fact that clover hay and lucerne, unlike timothy hay, do not present sharp, solid cutting edges. The results are decisive, and in accord with those of a trial made by the Indiana experiment station with cattle. Director Sanborn points out the fact that these trials, covering nearly a year's time with four horses, showed that horses consume practically when high fed, and makes it somewhat clear that horses make as economical use of hay and grain as do cattle, and calls attention to the fact that the practice of charging more for the pasturage of horses where grooming is not involved, is not well founded. He also shows that less food was eaten during the hot months than during the cooler months, and particularly that the horses ate less grain during the hot months than during the cooler months.

The Same Amount of Food that Cattle Do

The trial seems to show also that a rather large ration of grain for work horses is an economical one.

A writer in the New England Farmer says: With June come the products from seed sown in the open field. All vegetable products sell for some price, but it is the bright, thinking gardeners producing fancy early stock who get the top prices. "How do you produce such large, fine lettuce so early in the season?" was asked one of the favored ones. His answer was "By knowing how." "That wasn't produced," said he, "from seed bought in open market. I have been selecting my seed for many years. I have striven for an ideal and have bred up to it, the same as one breeds for an ideal cow. You would not think of going into Brighton market expecting to buy your ideal cow, would you? I have fed this lettuce with abundant food of the right sort. I have not fertilized without knowledge. To grow large leaved lettuce, requires abundance of nitrogen; as nitrogen does not abound, until the soil attains a natural warmth, about 60°, special fertilizers like Sulphate of Ammonia must be used. Later in the season, however, I would not think of using sulphate of ammonia; it would then, with the nitrogen generated from the fermentation of natural vegetable matter yearly put in the land in the shape of stable manure, make an unbalanced food, bringing on a [illegible] and mildew."

Many of our most intelligent market gardeners court a dry season, as they are enabled to get better prices for what vegetables they do produce. Their soils have been liberally supplied with stable manure and are in a [illegible] condition which [illegible] when the drouth is broken; and they can then place upon the market a better class of produce than those who have been less liberal.

Many fall crops are planted during June and July and should drouth prevail it makes germination of seed difficult, as well as prevents transplanted plants from "catching on."

are of material service. The rolling of loose soil by firming tends to increase the loss of water from the surface by evaporation. This brings water to the surface from as great depths as four or five feet, causing the surface to be wetter than it otherwise would be.

When drouth occurs at seeding time rolling increases the amount of water in the vicinity of the germinating seed; and if rolling is immediately followed by a light harrow so as to develop a surface mulch over seed bed, all the advantages of firming the ground will be realized at the same time preventing surface evaporation. The efficacy of firming of seed after sowing during hot dry weather, has been illustrated by grass seed germinating more rapidly in spots where the cart wheel has run over the bed after seeding.

After sowing vegetable seed during June and July for fall crops, let two men with a hand roller walk between the rows which are fully marked by the small roller or seed sower. The result is perfect germination of seed, even though the seed may be of questioned vitality. In transplanting cabbage, cauliflower and celery during dry time, the land should first be plowed and rolled. Light cultivation between the rows will break the contact of the capillary tubes with the surface.

The Farmer's Great Enemies

during June and July are insects. A little later the fungus pests come in for a large share of attention. The squash vine borer is one of the most perplexing insects to deal with. The moth that lays the eggs which produce the borers appears about June 20th and stays about one month. The eggs are deposited on the vine near the ground and in about 10 days hatch and bore into the vine: hidden away they bore through the heart, destroying the alimentary canal which furnishes the growing vine with food and moisture.

One remedy is to go over the patch, rub the finger over the vine three or four inches from the ground, thus crushing the eggs; this should be done at least once a week during the moth's existence. Weak, half starved plants are a more easy prey to all insects. Our market gardeners who practice the intensive style of farming are not severely troubled with insects. By completely feeding the plant they disturb the soil so often it offers an insecure lodgment for insects. It is thought that late fall plowing, which is almost universally practiced by market gardeners, destroys many of the insects. Another remedy for the squash borer is to put about the stem of the vine some substance, the fumes of which are distasteful to the moth, such as corn cobs soaked in coal tar.

Raspberry Culture.

If the young raspberry canes are nipped as soon as they are two and a half feet high, they will begin to spread and grow stocky. Perhaps it is best to nip the bud out at two feet high, for they will run up some after they are nipped. By so doing and checking the top, the roots become larger and stronger and the top branches out more. Then as soon as the fruiting canes are done with their burden, cut them all out. This cutting out of the old canes throws all the strength and vigor of the roots into the young canes, so that by winter they are strong and quite stocky, more able to withstand the winds and less liable to be blown down.

Growing More Liberal

That's what the human race is doing—particularly the American part of it.

There are a few left who are satisfied with ancient history. But most people are ready to apply modern progress and common-sense to the treatment of the human stomach—an organ that demands its rights whether or no; that resents the insults of worn-out methods. All this is to emphasize the facts about

COTTOLENE

There was once a prejudice against Cottonseed oil. But people who are alive, who investigate, who have no bigotry in their composition, have found that pure, refined cottonseed oil combined with selected beef suet is a better article in every conceivable way than hog's lard. And so they wisely use it for cooking—and are correspondingly healthy and happy. The sales of COTTOLENE are enormous and constantly increasing; a proof that it is appreciated by appreciative persons.

At Commission Price.

Ladies, do you realize that when you buy of the retailer, you are paying THREE unnecessary profits? The manufacturer sells to the commission house, the latter to the jobber, and the jobber in turn sells to the retail merchant. You must pay the manufacturer a profit first, and then pay each of the subsequent handlers a profit, not infrequently paying two profits to the retailer. The is a responsible syndicate which sells direct to the consumer. By investing in manufacturers' samples, odd s and ends, job-lots, and the stocks of insolvent manufacturers, in connection with our regular commission holdings, we are able to sell to the consumer direct at the COMMISSION price, which is but one remove from the manufacturer's.

While this company handles all kinds of ladies' furnishings, we are making a special drive on our HOSIERY merely to introduce our name in your territory and establish a reputation for giving values never before offered, so that you will be fully prepared for our later announcement of our entire lines. Read the following offers:

Ladies' full length, fashioned, fast black hose, superfine gauge, (retailing everywhere at 25 to 35 cents per pair), we will sell at 16 cents, or one-half dozen at 96 cents.

Ladies' extra length, full regular made, fast black and seamless hose, very finest gauge, (retailing everywhere at 50 cents up), we will sell at 23 cents, or one-half dozen for $1.38.

One thing in which the savage and the civilized being differ is that the former has no fixed abode and so has no need of furniture. The civilized man does. Even for the man of advanced civilization it is not always convenient to pay down a large sum of money for furniture even if he does need it, and think that same cause has separated. The young man wanted to go to housekeeping, but could not afford the money to furnish the house. What an amount of trouble he would have been spared if he had only visited who would have furnished the house completely for him to the smallest details and made the terms of payment so easy that he could have carried the debt easily. We are the only firm that can do this and the people of Maine realize it.

How Many Loving Hearts

Our stock this spring is larger than ever. We have lots of Chamber Sets from $18 upward, that will please, and they are great value for the money. You know that we sell Mattresses, Toilet Sets and Bed Clothes, too.

Some Picture, a Fancy Table or so, or a new Carpet would add to the parlor, even if you did not get a new suit. One always feels pride in a pretty parlor in which to receive visitors, and you can furnish it so prettily for a little money. $45 buys a new Parlor Suit, and then if you get a pair of Lace Curtains you have a charming little apartment.

We Carry A Fine Line of Organs and Pianos in case you should need one of these.

Rockers, Easy Chairs and Lounges are always in demand and our stock of these is large. You will be astonished at the low prices, too.

Dining Room Tables from $9 upwards, and Chairs to match, and Crockery and Glassware.

That old cook stove over which you have boiled and baked so long is worn out. Let us show you a patent modern range with all the latest improvements. They are worth the money they cost and will save not only your time and patience but your fuel. You have heard of the Quaker Range. Ask to see it.

[illegible] Refrigerator Now.

The hot season is approaching and a good Refrigerator becomes a necessity. Your food tastes better and keeps better on ice. For the best results get the best make It is the and we carry it in all styles. It is the best refrigerator in the market. The price is $14 to $30, according to size and style.

We cannot mention all we carry. Even our extensive catalogue will not do that, but we can furnish anything you may want in House furnishing line.

Send for catalogue and samples if you cannot visit us and your order will receive prompt and careful attention.
